4. That it be recommended that our State Legislators be informed of all action taken and be asked to use their influence in behalf of the City of Hope in this matter.

destination—two bureau drawers and a closet shared with another girl — required that the family car be pressed into service as a truck. What would not fit in it was left behind to be shipped by commercial carrier.

Getting there was only half the fun. The rest came later, in the form of stuffing the assorted impedimenta into a minute elevator in the dorm and into an even more minute room, under the glaring gaze of her roommate.

When she came home for Thanksgiving that first year she brought with her some 50 pounds of extraneous equipment and the same process was repeated at Christmas, Intercession and spring vacation.

Last year, returning as a sophomore, she pared her paraphernalia down to such an extent that it fit into one small trunk and one suitcase.

This year, preparing to go back to GW as a junior, she postponed any thought about packing until the last minute. "Oh I'll just throw a few things into a couple of suitcases the night before I leave," she said alighty. "Who needs a lot of extra junk around at school?"

the unofficial count for construction was 2,286 to 1,491 against.

The vote for a two-mill tax was 2,160 for to 1,618 against. In a previous vote, residents approved the proposed expansion but defeated the tax to finance it.

The Hope-Hempstead County labor survey begins today. The mailing of 26,000 questionnaires to 6,500 household in Hempstead County officially launched the project which is jointly sponsored by the Hope-Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce, the Hope Industrial Foundation, the Employment Security Division, and the Southwest Arkansas Economic Development District.

Hubert Thrash, Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at a final planning meeting held in the Chamber offices Tuesday afternoon. Thirty-five representatives from various organizations assisting in the program attended.

John Norton, Economic Development Officer of the Wortham Bank, Little Rock, told of the importance of a successful labor survey for Hope and Hempstead County.

Walter Allen of the Area Development Section, Employment Security Division Little Rock Central Office, explained how the survey would be conducted.

Vincent W. Foster, President of the Hope Industrial Foundation, discussed the survey and the effect it would have upon the location of six prospective industries who are now considering locating in Hope.

Ray Lawrence, First National Bank, representing Tom Ed Hays, Jr., Chairman of the Hope Industrial Foundation share drive, told the progress being made in selling additional shares.

Arrangements were completed with Postmaster A.D. Brannan for the special handling of these forms, and they should be delivered to residents of the area in Thursday's mail.

Teddy Jones, Manager of the Hope Employment Security Division Office, pointed out the importance of every person 16 years of age and over in the county returning the form. He said that the information was confidential and vitally necessary for this section in connection with expansion of present industries and location of new industries.

of the oil-rich Texas county urging Nixon to stand fast for 27 1/2 per cent, said specifically the President "has asked me to respond in his behalf."

It was addressed to Mrs. Barbara G. Culver, head of the commissioners in Midland County, a West Texas area where oil is the major cash crop.

Mrs. Culver is an active two-term Republican in an area with strong conservative sentiment.

The initial acceptance of the allowance cut bore the unmistakable imprimatur of the President. It was hashed out in many conferences involving much of Nixon's staff and culminated with most of the Treasury's leaders going to the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., for personal conferences with the President and his staff.

The 27 1/2 per cent rate—the result of an ancient compromise between the Senate and House — has been under attack with critics saying it is a symbol of tax privileges granted big business by the government.

Baker, Scott Both Claim GOP Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania was elected today leader of the Senate Republican minority.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both candidates claimed the lead as Senate Republicans today reached decision time in choosing between veteran Hugh Scott and newcomer Howard H. Baker Jr. as leader of their 43-member minority.

Scott, the Pennsylvania senator fighting for promotion to the No. 2 GOP slot, said on the eve of the vote that his support was "firm and rising" and sufficient for victory.

Baker, a first-term senator from Tennessee, had insisted he was ahead but said neither candidate had the advance commitments to insure victory.

Angry Union Leaders May Call Boycott

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Angry union leaders threatened today a boycott of federal construction projects to protest a government plan they said would set racial hiring quotas.

"It's going to raise the roof," said one AFL-CIO building trades leader after the Labor Department announced it would go ahead with the controversial Philadelphia plan.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said in Washington Tuesday the plan would be put into effect in Philadelphia and expanded nationwide as soon as possible to insure more high-paying construction jobs for Negroes and other minority groups.

Mixed Drinks Revenue $8,030

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock City Collector Dick Jones reported Tuesday that revenue from the sale of mixed drinks in Little Rock's 39 private clubs and public establishments that serve the drinks totaled $8,030.51 in August.

He said the total for the previous month was $8,158.73. The city has collected $40,983.89 from the 10 per cent tax on gross sales of mixed drinks since last May 1.

Another Cold Front Slated to Hit State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The cold front responsible for Tuesday's showers has moved out of the state into Tennessee, but another cold front sweeping out of the Northwest is expected to edge into Northwest Arkansas by late Thursday.

More shower activity is expected with the advance of the cold front.

The widespread showers and thundershowers in the state Tuesday amounted to a half inch or less in most areas. The showers were the first general rainfall in some areas of the state in about a month.

In Little Rock, wet streets caused traffic jams and numerous minor automobile accidents. However, no serious injuries were reported.

Overnight lows included 65 at Memphis and Little Rock, 63 at Blytheville and El Dorado, 66 at Texarkana, 68 at Pine Bluff, 61 at Jonesboro, 53 at Harrison and 49 at Fayetteville.

Lows tonight are expected to be in the 50s and low 60s.

Strolling Nudes in the Garden of Eden Are Disturbing Neighbor

DADE CITY, Fla. (AP) — Charles and Virgie Mae Fox complain that strolling nudes in the Garden of Eden are ruining their Sunday dinners.

"They're objectionable and unsightly," Virgie told the Pasco County Commission Tuesday. "You should do something about them."

Nixon Farm Plan Would Cut Subsidies

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration unfolded today a new general farm program aimed at making efficient farmers rely less on government subsidies and enabling the poorest to get out of agriculture completely.

About 400,000 low-income farm families might be eligible for federal payments averaging $1,000 a year under the family assistance program recently proposed by President Nixon.

vidual services a greater and earlier say in planning.

However, some key elements of McNamara's budget reforms remain and Laird is not forfeiting ultimate authority. He and Packard will make the final Pentagon decisions on the Nixon administration's first defense budget which will be sent to Congress in January.

There are indications it will be relatively austere budget, possibly held to around $70 billion. This would be about $7 billion below the present out-down version of the final Johnson administration defense budget.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

By GAYNOR MADDOX

The American public keeps right on rolling along. Every week some new inn or motel is being opened. There seems to be plenty of money around and the public gets more discriminating about inns.

"The traveling public does not seem so rate-conscious today as it was. People seem much more alert to the quality of the service and demand to know what they will get for the money spent, rather than how much it will cost them," according to J. Frank Birdsall Jr., president of the far-flung Treadway Inns and Resorts, based in Rochester, N.Y.

Room rentals were raised 10 per cent this year. Food prices also have jumped.

"But we've had little protest," Birdsall states. "A few grumbles, of course."

Meat prices are up 25 per cent. Most do not realize that, to make any profit, a restaurant must sell an item that cost them $3 for $9. That mark-up covers rent, salaries, equipment, breakage, insurance and other inescapable operational expenses.

"This explains why food away from home costs more than home meals. Yet every year more and more people eat out. It certainly looks as if a lot of them have more money to spend than they used to," he says, adding:

"But the price squeeze is on us. We have to shorten our menus, cut out items that are not generally popular and concentrate on what most patrons want. Our menus may be more limited, yes. But we think they are better and please more people."

Treadway Inns became famous as a New England institution long before they spread all over the United States. To maintain that image, some typical New England dishes always appear on each menu, such as New England clam chowder, lobster pie and Indian pudding.

The old-fashioned table d'hote menu of soup, appetizer, entree with vegetables, assorted relishes, salad, rolls and dessert is losing its popularity. Too much food at one sitting might be good for the restaurant but not for the customer.

"More patrons are demanding high-protein and low-fat meals. They are more sophisticated about nutrition. They want to cut down on calories and fried foods generally," explains Birdsall.

Michigan-born and a graduate of Cornell Hotel School, he is a recognized leader in bedding and feeding the public.

"Let's face it. Beef, good beef, is what most seem to want," Birdsall says.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It may not be long before some television viewers hunger for the old-fashioned phony violence of Wild West shoot-outs and the faked fights of private eyes. This year, TV violence and tragedy hits closer to home, with sickness, physical handicaps, plane crashes as the base of dramatic conflict.

The TV doctors are making their initial housecalls. "Marcus Welby, M.D.," dropped by, via ABC, Tuesday night with a story about a pretty young school teacher dying of brain cancer.

Dr. Welby—Robert Young—is a kindly, wise general practitioner. He has a young, intense assistant—James Brolin—who makes house calls on a motorcycle. They discussed symptoms a bit in the first show but mostly the young doctor was getting himself emotionally involved with the teacher. The touchy question of whether to tell a patient he is dying was handled as if it were not a debatable point—the girl was told as she was coming out of the anesthetic of her operation.

The first program of another doctors' series, "Medical Center," will be broadcast by CBS tonight. It is the story of a determined doctor trying to persuade an ailing athlete to submit to the surgery he needs.

The CBS series premiere, seen in a preview, is hospital-oriented and Chad Everett, as the young surgeon, is as dedicated as Ben Casey. The story centers on the university's football star refusing medical attention because it might interfere with his rich future in pro ball.

Dr. Cannon suspects—more outlining of symptoms—a tumor but only manages to get his man on the operating table in the nick of time.

A pleasant surprise is the engaging performance by football star O.J. Simpson.

It will be interesting to see if, in weeks to come, the public finds these dramatic excursion into human misery gripping entertainment. Both shows were well produced and sympathetically acted.

Plane crashes promise to be handy dramatic devices. "The New People" started Monday night with one, and a crack-up was the foundation of the plot Tuesday of the first show in ABC's new "Movie of the Week" series. "Seven in Darkness" had a group of blind persons surviving the crash and most of the 90 minutes showed their stumbling, peril-filled trek to safety.

The program was contrived, often melodramatic and too long. It was probably not a very happy choice for a first show since it was often painful and tedious in spite of the work of an excellent cast including Milton Berle, Barry Nelson and Dina Merrill.

Recommended tonight: "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," premiere, ABC, 8-8:30 EDT, situation comedy with Bill Bixby as a young widower with a matchmaking son.

Final encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was held in 1949.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

MY READERS ANSWER THE MAIL

Dear Helen: I just couldn't let Mrs. J.B.'s letter about today's "low" babysitting rates go unanswered. Don't know when I've been so riled. Her suggestion that sitters hold out for $1.00 an hour really burned me.

I have two children, seven and 10, and pay the going rate of 50 cents an hour for a sitter. My youngsters are in bed when she arrives. She doesn't have to feed them, amuse them, change them. All she does is park herself in front of the TV. If for some reason you have to call home, the line is busy—she's talking to her boyfriend. I come back to empty Coke bottle and glasses in the sink; remains of food the sitter has eaten.

When these girls can learn to do their jobs well, bring their own snacks and supply their own transportation, then they can strike for a raise! I pay a maid $1.50 an hour to clean my whole house and she WORKS! If sitters rates ever go to $1.00 an hour, teen-agers will find themselves out of jobs, as a responsible adult will work for that amount, and we prefer this kind.

JOAN.

Dear Helen: My girl friend has been baby sitting for 50 cents an hour. Then recently I went "on the job" with her (with permission from the boss.)

The responsibility of caring for those kids is worth much more than the paltry $2.50 she took home that day. She was busy almost every minute. She left the house clean and the kids happy, and believe me, she was tired at the end of five hours! People should be ashamed to offer only 50 cents an hour for substitute mothering.

Now, whenever these folks call my girl to "sit" at this rate, I offer her 75 cents an hour to go out with ME.—K.M.M.

Dear Helen: What about working women? They can't pay $1.00 an hour for a sitter when sometimes they only earn $1.75 an hour or less. I don't like to work, but I must, to pay taxes. My sitters receive $25 a week (for 40 hours) plus meals, and I'm so glad she is satisfied with it!—E.C.

Dear Helen: In New York City, we professional people pay from $1.50 to $2.00 an hour for baby sitters. Though my husband is a doctor, we can't afford to go out many evenings, for with the price of meals, shows, etc., even the smallest night out, plus sitters, comes to $50.00. Those people who complain about $75 or $1.00 per hour don't know how lucky they are!—MANHATTAN CLIFF DWELLER

Dear Helen: In my seven years of hiring sitters, I have had an impressive array of teen-agers come into my home under the guise of "babysitting." Of the lot, only one could qualify for $1.00 an hour. The others have been nice girls, but completely lacking in the skills of child care. I feel sorry for them when they have homes of their own!—"B"

Dear Helen: If I happen to find a good sitter, I pay her more than the going rate, and tip her generously besides, but let's face it, only one out of 10 teen-agers is worth more than 50 cents an hour. If we'd let it be known we would pay these girls what they are worth, and fire the incompetent ones, the rate would stabilize where it should be.—Mrs. A.C.

Dear Helen: I agree with Mrs. J.B. that 50 cents an hour for sitting is archaic, but a flat rate of $1.00 is in some cases too much, especially if there is only one child who sleeps all evening.

We pay a basic rate of 75 cents an hour (we have three children) but we tip an extra dollar if the kids must be fed and put to bed. We leave goodies for the sitter. So far, our sitters seem to have a good time, and without my asking it, they leave the house clean, everything in order. We're—MUTUALLY HAPPY

Carpet Needs Attention

It may surprise you to know that about 16 pounds of dirt and grime collects on the living room carpet every six months. Spot cleaning and light touch-ups with rug shampoo on a frequent basis go a long way towards a year-round clean home.

Hand-Saving Feature

One hand-saving feature to look for in hand tools is clean, cushioned grips. As much as you use a pruner, a trowel or grass shears, you won't become as tired using a hand tool with some sort of extra cushioning as you will with a tool having bare metal handles. If the grips are vinyl, your hands won't smell or become smudged from their use.

Porkers Are Favored Over Tulsa

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Since this corner correctly forecast that Rutgers would beat Princeton in the first college football game back in Nov. 6, 1869, it seems appropriate that this week's guessing game should lead off with those two teams in the sport's centennial game.

The 100th anniversary meeting takes place Saturday in New Brunswick, N.J., and about the only sure thing is that the score won't be 6-4 like the original.

Nor will the contest end in a tie. None of the previous 59 meetings has—Princeton holds a 50-9 edge—and Rutgers, with 154 games, and Princeton, at 129, have the second and third longest no-tie streaks in the country, behind Villanova's 157.

Choosing a winner boils down to which team can put more points on the board in a high-scoring game. Rutgers appears to have some advantages—home field, a game (44-22 over Lafayette) under its belt, spring practice. Princeton, meanwhile, is breaking in a new coach—Jake McCandless—who switched from the traditional single wing to a multiple offense despite Princeton's shortest pre-season camp in two decades.

The pick accordingly is—Rutgers.

Hopefully, that will turn out better than last week's special, which had Virginia Tech upsetting Alabama, only to see the Crimson Tide pull out a 17-13 squeaker.

This time, the No. 1 team in the country is in action. Ohio State's Buckeyes, defending national champions and Rose Bowl winners over Southern California, swing into action against Texas Christian at Columbus, Ohio.

"It will be a high-scoring game," predicts Coach Woody Hayes, who has 18 of 22 starters back in harness. "I think we can go into the game with everybody ready to go."

Ohio State it is.

Florida Man Named Back of the Week

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Overnight college football hero John Reeves of Florida doesn't expect to slip up on future opponents.

"We're nationally ranked and people know of our passing game," said The Associated Press Back of the Week. "It's rewarding, but such honors also alert your foes and they try twice as hard to show you up."

The 6-foot-4, 204-pound Reeves hit 10 for 30 passing for 342 yards when the Gators bombed Houston 59-34 last Saturday.

"Great receivers and strong pass blocking created this honor," said Reeves. "It turned me into the Back of the Week instead of an unknown sophomore."

It was Reeves' first varsity game and the Tampa product broke the Florida aerial record of 289 yards set by Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier.

"Next to beating Houston, this is the biggest thing that's happened in my life," said the Gator rookie. "I accept it for the entire football team including some coaches that devised fantastic passing routes to help pick apart the Houston defense."

Reeves' next chance is Saturday night when the Gators meet Mississippi State at Jackson.

Heisman Trophy. Even Mr. Heisman himself wouldn't help against second-ranked Penn State.

McNulty Came to Porkers the Hard Way

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Like Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles says, the fact that Gordon McNulty is a Razorback is "quite a story."

McNulty, the defensive right end in Arkansas' front four, weighed 183 pounds when he graduated from Pine Bluff High School more than four years ago and agreed to go to Vanderbilt University.

He played the fall semester of his freshman semester at Vanderbilt and then transferred to Arkansas without a scholarship. He then sat out two years, waiting on the moment he would be eligible to play.

"I guess being a Razorback is in your blood," McNulty said. "I didn't come back, I'd never have known whether I could play for Arkansas."

"There was a rumor going around that I wasn't big enough to play," said McNulty, who now weighs 215.

Defensive line coach Charles Coffey says McNulty is not being corny when he talks about the desire to be a Razorback. "He was serious about it," says Coffey. "He's that type of boy. He's got certain things that mean an awful lot to him."

Two years ago Coffey put McNulty at defensive end waiting for someone to beat him out. He's still waiting.

"I knew that he had what we were looking for in attitude and effort," Coffey said. "He was tough mentally and physically, but we didn't think he was strong enough to do the things we wanted him to do."

"We put him in there knowing whoever beat him out would probably be able to help us," Coffey said. "We kept sending people over there and over there, trying to beat him out but they never did."

"He gets better every day and every week," Coffey said. "The tired he gets, the harder he works. He never stops. Nobody will ever outwork him."

McNulty is the ringleader of a defensive unit which grew up together through the most adverse conditions until it became a mature unit at its best in Arkansas' 16-2 Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia.

"We all realized last year that we had to work as a unit," said McNulty. "The spirit was pretty well summed up by Terry Don (Phillips) last summer when he said, 'We're all going to play. There's not any of us All-Americans and none of us that are any better than the others.'"

"Gordon still makes his share of mistakes, but they're all aggressive ones," said Coffey. "And, you can't fault him for

Giants Are Knocked Out of First

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The San Francisco Giants left Ollie Brown off their protected list for last year's National League expansion draft and the San Diego Padres promptly picked him No. 1. It took almost all season, but Brown has finally made the Giants No. 2.

It all came about in the ninth inning of Tuesday night's game in San Diego. Roberto Pena singled with one out and pinch runner Ron Slocum raced to second on reliever Frank Linzy's wild pitch. Up stepped Brown and singled to center, driving in Slocum and giving the Padres a 5-4 victory that knocked the Giants out of first place in the NL West.

The Giants fell one-half game and three percentage points behind Atlanta, which trounced Houston 10-2, eliminating the Astros from the race. Cincinnati remained in contention three games out by sweeping a doubleheader from Los Angeles 6-3 and 5-2, dropping the Dodgers 5½ games off the pace and virtually ending their flag hopes.

The amazing New York Mets clinched a tie for the title in the NL East, edging Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 in 11 innings. That put them six games ahead of the Chicago Cubs, who lost to Montreal 7-3. Both teams have six games remaining. Philadelphia nipped Pittsburgh 4-3 in the other NL game.

In the American League, Cleveland topped Baltimore 3-1. Like Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles says, the fact that Gordon McNulty is a Razorback is "quite a story."

"He's exactly what a coach looks for in attitude and leadership," Coffey said. "He leads constantly. Even when he's on the sidelines, he's still working over there toward helping those that are on the field."

That recognition was not granted by the NHL Tuesday although the group of 13 referees and seven linesmen had earlier refused to work without it. The group agreed to accept, among other things, the NHL's offer of better contracts and a non-contributory pension plan.

Juniors Play Arkadelphia Here Thurs.

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Two winning traditions are on the line tomorrow night, as the Hope Yergers Junior High Bobkittens collide with the Arkadelphia Beavers in Hammons Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Both teams are 2-0 for the year, and the Beavers have a win streak near 30 games in a row. Yergers has won six in succession, and these figures should make for a real battle.

So far this season Coach Gaylord Solomon's Bobkittens have romped over two mediocre opponents, blasting Prescott 25-0 and routing DeQueen 27-0 last Thursday night away from home. Arkadelphia defeated Fairview in its opener, then rocked Prescott 35-13.

For the Bobkittens, the main hope will be for the offense to get the points. Tailback David Johnson, only an 8th grader, has run for 223 yards in the first two games and has scored four touchdowns to lead the squad. His performance must be depended upon, along with fullback David Huddleston, another 8th grader.

With a running attack hopefully successful, then the Kittens could work on the passing game with quarterback Buddy Ingram. Though he has a fine arm, Ingram thus far has had problems connecting with his open receivers, and must be on the mark for Yergers to move the ball consistently tomorrow night.

His main targets will be end Jackie Barker and Huddleston, and Solomon is in hopes that all the receivers can show up well. Arkadelphia lost its 1968 superstar in Luther Guinn, who has 30 points in two games as a Badger soph, but has an all-freshman squad which could be as good as last year's outfit, which handed Hope its only loss in a 13-2 decision.

What is expected will be a crowd-pleaser, matching two fiercely competitive teams trying to define their own potential. It should merit a good crowd, and the game will even be taped by KXAR for re-broadcast after the Arkansas-Tulsa game late Saturday afternoon.

Brown Real High About Quarterback

NEW YORK (AP) — Greg Cook, the strapping young quarterback who holds the key to Cincinnati's American Football League future, is beginning to remind Bengals Coach Paul Brown of past glories.

"If he stays with it, I've got myself another Otto Graham," Brown said last Sunday after Cook passed for three touchdowns and scrambled for a fourth in the Bengals' 34-20 upset victory over San Diego.

Graham quarterbacked the Brown-coached Cleveland Browns to a string of championships in the old All-America Conference and the National Football League while Cook was growing up in Chillicothe, Ohio.

But today the 22-year-old rookie was named AFL Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press. Denver defensive end Rich Jackson was named Defensive Player of the Week Tuesday.

Murphy Named Treasurer of District

At the recent 1969 Mo-Ark District Convention of Kiwanis International in Springfield, Missouri, the local Kiwanis Club was signally honored by having one of its members, Dean Murphy, elected Mo-Ark District Treasurer, and another member, F.C. Crow, elected Lt. Governor of Division XXIV of the Mo-Ark District.

Mr. Murphy as District Treasurer

DEAN MURPHY

He is the first member of the local club to hold a district office. He will be responsible for funds and accounts of all the Kiwanis Clubs in the states of Missouri and Arkansas, at district level.

He became a member of the local club in 1959 and has served as Chairman of practically every standing committee. He served as Vice President in 1964 and as President in 1965, followed by his service as Lt. Governor of Division XXIV in 1966. Mr. Murphy has attended 8 Mo-Ark District conventions and 4 conventions of Kiwanis International, becoming well versed in Kiwanis and well fitted to serve as a District officer.

In addition to his Kiwanis activities, he participates actively in most community projects. He is a Mason, a Baptist deacon, and has been active in Scouting, as well as having served as County Chairman of the Heart fund, Easter Seals, Red Cross, and March of Dimes.

Members of the local Kiwanis Club endorsed Dean Murphy for the District office to which he was elected and know he will be a credit to the District as well as the local club. K.G. Hamilton, F.C. Crow, Royce Welsenberger, Mrs. Hamilton, and Mrs. Murphy accompanied Mr. Murphy to the recent convention.

Lineman of Week Is Penn State Player

"Music is the most important thing in my life," says Mike Reid. You'd have a hard time convincing the Navy football team.

Reid, a 6-foot-3, 240-pound defensive tackle for Penn State, played barely half of Saturday's 45-22 trouncing of Navy. What time he did play was spent in the Navy backfield.

The senior music major—he plays the piano and organ—from Altoona, Pa., was in on 12 tackles, seven of them unassisted and kept constant pressure on the passer. The defense held Navy to 45 yards on the ground.

For that performance, he was named The Associated Press' first College Lineman of the Week for 1969. In his first college game—against Maryland in 1966—he won the same honor. Reid sat out the 1967 season after injuring a knee on the sixth play of the opening game.

There can't be a better defensive tackle in the entire country than Reid," says Coach Joe Paterno of the second-ranked Nittany Lions. "He'll be an All-American if I don't overcoach him."

Reid made second team All-America last year, but still would rather tinkle the ivories than opposing quarterbacks.

"I know I look more like a piano mover than a piano player," he says, "but when I'm disgusted or disappointed I turn to the piano. Quite a few composers expressed deep sadness in music. Beethoven suffered, and it comes out in his music."

"I don't mean to sound melodramatic, but when I got word that I had to undergo a second knee operation, I turned to the piano. It gave me much comfort."

HOOPLE COMPILES AMAZING RECORD DESPITE RASH OF GRIDIRON UPSETS

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Egad, friends! Once again the loyal followers of the Hoople Forecasts were treated to a scintillating exhibition of pigskin prognosticating.

While compiling an astronomical .800 percentage with 40 correct choices and only 10 misses on last week's card, your forecaster pegged the upset triumphs of Georgia Tech over SMU, Texas Tech over powerful Kansas, Oregon State over Iowa and Kansas State over Baylor—har-rumph. What other forecaster can claim an amazing record like that? None, I'll wager!

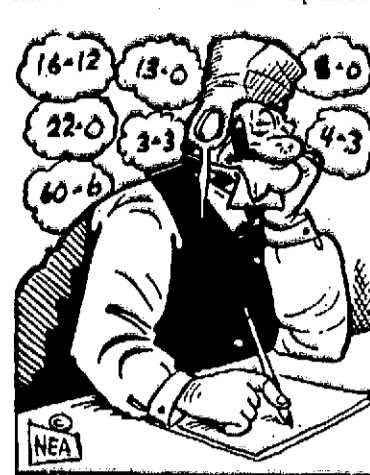

And upsets will be the order of the day again this Saturday as Texas Tech stuns the football world with a 26-20 victory over the highly regarded Texas Longhorns—um-kumph!

Equally as astonishing will be Ohio University's 28-16 triumph over Minnesota's Gophers and Auburn's 32-25 win over the Tennessee Volunteers!

Not quite as surprising will be Notre Dame's conquest of Purdue on the latter's home ground. The Hoople System predicts an Irish victory, 22-21!

Boston Fans Irked by Firing of Williams

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The firing of Dick Williams has stirred controversy galore in this town where just two years ago he was being idolized for leading Boston's 100-1 longshot to their impossible Dream pennant.

Fan reaction reported on newspapers and on radio and television was mostly critical of the Red Sox after the club announced the ouster of the controversial field boss with a year left to go on his $50,000-a-year contract.

Speculation also was rife that the action represented a coup for dissident players in a throw-back to the old "country club" days for which the team was famous before William came on the scene.

General Manager Dick O'Connell told a news conference the firing was "a culmination of a number of things," climaxed by "a falling down of communications between the managerial staff and the players."

Williams acknowledged this as the reason given by the club, but also alluded to a "personality conflict" between himself and owner Yawkey.

Meanwhile most of the players weren't talking for publication—but in some cases they didn't really have to.

"I don't have anything to say," commented George Scott, who was at odds with the manager almost the entire 1968 season. "I think it's obvious how I feel. It's gotta be."

Tony Conigliaro, who made no secret of his unhappiness with a couple of Williams' comments in 1968, also declined to get involved.

Carl Yastrzemski, considered by many to be the other principal in a star-manager feud which cost the manager his job, denied any such involvement. "We had no personal clash," the slugging outfielder said. "We had a few problems, and we had them right out in the open man to man. There was never any lingering problems."

O'Connell in his news conference conceded that there were cliques on the club, but said he didn't know of any cases of players going to Yawkey behind Williams' back to voice complaints about the manager, as has been rumored.

He said the disappointing showing of the club this season was one factor in the decision to dismiss Williams and added that the "falling down of communications" was not just a reason thrown at the manager out of the blue when he was fired.

"We talked to Dick about some things during the year—things we thought should be changed," he said.

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899—Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880—Hope News founded by Lafayette Brothers.
1883—Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883—Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.
1884—Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by
Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916—Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald—but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926—Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.
1927—Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929—C.E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957—Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969—With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president —balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

Marshall Miles of San Bernardino and Eddie Kantar of Los Angeles are one of our best partnerships but even the best sometimes get a trifle too high in their bidding.

East's fancy opening club bid started them off on their run to the stratosphere but they did manage to stop in the never-never land between game and slam and it was up to Eddie to bring the contract in. He proceeded to do so with flawless technique. Nothing sensational but the sort of job expected from players of this caliber.

He played the queen of clubs from dummy. East took his king and led a trump. West's nine forced dummy's ace and it was up to Eddie to make all the rest of the tricks but one.

He cashed the ace and king of spades and finessed dummy's queen of diamonds. So far, so good. He cashed his ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond while East discarded. Then he ruffed a spade in dummy and made the important play of cashing dummy's ace of clubs. In working a cross-ruff, it is important to get in your side cards before your opponents have a chance to get in position to ruff them.

Now he led dummy's last diamond. East could gain nothing by ruffing and discarded. Now Eddie led his last spade.

If West discarded, Eddie would ruff for his 10th trick, so West ruffed with the jack of trumps. This left Eddie with the king-10 and, since West was on lead, Eddie could show his two cards and claim the last two tricks.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

An example of brotherhood in the face of ruling prejudice was set in the 1936 Olympics. The World Almanac recalls. Competing under the shadow of Hitler's racial comments, Jesse Owens captured four gold medals in the Games. At the end of the competition, Lutz Long, the German who finished second in the broad jump, smiled, put his arm around the black man who had beaten him and walked across the stadium field in full view of the Fuhrer.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Need Tension Relief?
You Must Learn to Relax

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

If you can learn to relax as completely as your sleeping cat or dog—and you can—you will be well on your way to conquering your nervous tension. When relaxed and reclining, your limbs, if lifted up, will fall back like a wet rag. Tension is basically nothing more than the contraction of one or more of your muscles. Relaxation, which is not to be confused with recreation, is a complete letting go of all muscular contractions.

The disorders stemming from excessive tension include peptic ulcer, mucous colitis, high blood pressure, coronary heart disease, insomnia, anxiety states, nervous stomach and depression. The ability to relax is the prime prerequisite to the avoidance of all of them but, for most victims of these disorders, the habit of tension is so firmly entrenched that it cannot be overcome without the expert guidance of a doctor trained in progressive relaxation.

Every task you perform requires nervous energy. The harm comes from the fact that when the need for normal tension passes we fail to unwind or let down. Because some of our tension is based on persistent reports of impending disasters of every kind beamed at us daily through various news media, it is all the more imperative that we learn how to relax.

Although partial relaxation of those muscles not needed for the task at hand—can and should be practiced throughout your waking hours, complete relaxation is accomplished only by lying down, preferably on your back with your arms at your sides and no part of your body resting on another. You must then become fully aware of the difference in the way a contracted and a relaxed muscle feels. This is especially important with regard to the small muscles around your eyes, ears and larynx.

When you have learned to relax these muscles and blot out all thoughts from your mind it will be difficult, if not impossible, to remain awake and in that moment you will have solved the problem of insomnia. There is no better way to relieve the tensions of the day than to lie down for a brief period of relaxation one or more times a day.

Ships, Planes Hit Enemy Positions

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. cruiser Boston and American B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese gun positions and base camps inside and just to the south of the demilitarized zone Tuesday night and today, the U.S. Command announced.

U.S. headquarters also reported 8,437 "indications of enemy presence or activity" inside the buffer zone since the bombing of North Vietnam ended 11 months ago.

The Boston turned her five-inch guns on North Vietnamese mortar positions in the southern half of the DMZ Tuesday night after enemy mortarmen there slammed 40 rounds into South Vietnamese positions just south of the zone.

The U.S. Command said there were no South Vietnamese casualties.

The cruiser silenced the enemy mortars, but North Vietnamese losses were not known, U.S. spokesmen said.

Fifteen B52s bombed base camps, bunkers, supply and staging areas six miles north-east of the U.S. Marine outpost called the Rockpile, the command said.

In the past four days, up to 60 of the big bombers have attacked enemy buildup areas just below the DMZ, a sector that is being vacated by the 3rd Marine Division and turned over to the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division.

The stepup in B52 raids indicates that the U.S. Command will use the big bombers in an attempt to fill the gap that the departure of the Marines is expected to leave. The 3rd Division Marines are going to Okinawa and the United States as part of the 35,000-man withdrawal ordered by President Nixon for the next three months.

U.S. officials claim that North Vietnam agreed to keep the DMZ free of military activity in return for the bombing halt. Hanoi has denied this, saying the bombing cessation was unconditional.

Of the 8,437 "enemy indications," the U.S. Command said only 207 were "significant incidents of enemy-initiated action."

The other incidents, the Command said, were minor, such as trail activity, moving lights at night, and new bunkers.

U.S. forces, in response to the indications of enemy presence or activity, have attacked positions inside the zone 4,325 times since last Nov. 1. U.S. artillery, fighter-bombers and 7th Fleet warships all have participated in the attacks.

Elsewhere, U.S. Navy river boats ambushed enemy soldiers attempting to cross the Saigon River 35 miles northwest of Saigon for the third time in the past two nights. Headquarters said 14 Viet Cong were killed in the latest ambush.

College Degree Can't Be Achieved Without Hairdryer, Stereo

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—According to the present rate of attrition, by next year our daughter may be going back to her senior year at college with nothing more than a toothbrush and a checkbook.

When she made her first excursion into the land of learning, Gay outdid the Boy Scouts in preparedness. What she took with her then would have been enough to establish clothing, shoe and appliance stores, with a drug and cosmetic business on the side.

To anyone watching her pack a trunk, suitcases, cartons and shopping bags, it was evident that she was headed for four years of isolation at an institute deep in the jungles of Africa. The fact is, she was going less than 300 miles from home to George Washington University, in the heart of the nation's capital.

Not only did she outfit herself with clothing sufficient to carry her through to a doctor's degree, but she armed herself with enough aspirin, allergy pills and cough syrup to enable the drug firms that produced them to declare an extra dividend.

As for cosmetics, she seemed convinced that eye makeup and foundation were completely unavailable in Washington, D.C., and only her forethought in going equipped with such exotic items as toothpaste, soap and shampoo would allow her to emulate the scouts in the field of cleanliness.

Obviously, a college education is impossible to achieve without the aid of a hairdryer, stereo, typewriter, clock-radio and electric blanket. Keeping in mind that she also might attend a few classes, Gay laid in a supply of pens, ink cartridges, loose-leaf paper, notebooks, pencils, erasers, rubber cement, cellophane type, paperclips and typewriter ribbons that made her the envy of the college bookstore.

Hints Nixon to Reverse Oil Stand

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of President Nixon's key political lieutenants has told a Republican stalwart in the heart-of-Texas oil country the White House will reverse its field and support the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance.

"The recent testimony before the Senate Finance Committee is to be corrected very soon by the secretary of the Treasury. The President continues to stand by his campaign commitments," deputy counsel Harry S. Dent wrote in a Sept. 4-dated letter to the head of the Midland County commission.

The commitment Dent referred to was made by Nixon in a Texas speech last fall when he said, "I oppose reduction of that (27 1/2 per cent) allowance."

The testimony Dent said would be corrected came Sept. 4 when Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy delivered the surprising word that the administration would accept reducing the depletion allowance to 20 per cent as dictated by the House in its tax reform bill.

"Although the administration did not recommend a cut... we accept the House approach to increasing the share of the national tax burden borne by the petroleum industry," Kennedy told the Senate committee.

Dent, chief White House political liaison, could not be reached for comment. But his letter, written in response to a resolution from the governing board

Two Senators Fighting Super Plane, Crumbling of Historic West Wall

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The historic but crumbling west wall of the Capitol and the sleek but unbuilt supersonic transport plane have been linked by two senators who say they're trying to save a piece of the past and make the future bearable.

In both cases—the $45 million plan to extend the Capitol's west front 88 feet and the billion-dollar effort to develop a 1,700-mile-an-hour commercial plane—the bond is money and the natural wellbeing of the citizenry.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., took similar stands Monday in opposing extension of the Capitol to provide added space for restaurants, offices and toilets.

They also took aim at the SST, revived Monday by President Nixon who urged spending $662 million over five years to develop it.

Proxmire said the SST would create sound pollution with a vengeance. "Each SST would lay down a carpet of sonic booms 60 to 70 miles wide. Fleets of SST's criss-crossing the country would create unprecedented pandemonium."

Speaking of the Capitol, Kennedy said: "As a society we are so impatient, so confident of our technological skills, that we all too often pay scant heed to our

Youths Can Attend Adult Classes

Sixteen year old students who are not attending public schools now may attend adult education courses according to a new ruling. This word was received by Hope public schools last week from the State Department of Education.

Persons who want to continue their education but have dropped out should be at the organizational meeting for adult education at Red River Vocational-Technical School Tuesday, October 7, at 7 p.m. according to James H. Jones, superintendent of schools.

Basic education, grades 1 thru 8, may be held at any school where there is sufficient enrollment but all persons should be at the first meeting at Red River Vocational-Technical School.

Judge Refuses Injunction

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—Chancellor J. Ford Smith has refused to issue a temporary injunction which would prevent the Helena-West Helena School Board from enforcing its new policy against fraternities and sororities.

Smith said there was no legal basis for the injunction.

The school board adopted a policy last spring which would prohibit students who belong to fraternities and fraternities from participating in extracurricular activities such as athletics.

A group of parents asked for the injunction, saying the policy infringed on the right of free association.

Armed Services Again Regain Leading Role in Shaping Defense Budget

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed services have regained a leading role in shaping the defense budget under a significant shift by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird away from the practices of his Democratic predecessors.

Guidelines laid down by Laird and Deputy Secretary David Packard give back to the service secretaries and the uniformed chiefs much of the budget responsibility they enjoyed before former Defense Chief Robert S. McNamara started gathering powers to himself and his staff more than eight years ago.

This means the young "white kids" in the Pentagon's systems analysis office are being downgraded still more, pushing them back in the decision-making process which they strongly influenced in the McNamara years.

The move is in line with Laird's policy of giving the indi-

Convention Riot Trials Are Started

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight men came to trial in U.S. District Court today charged with conspiring to set off the bloody clashes between police and anti-war demonstrators at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Selection of jurors is scheduled to begin this morning in the extra-large-Ceremonial Courtroom of the U.S. Courthouse with Judge Julius J. Hoffman, 74, presiding.

The defendants, who call themselves The Conspiracy, have said they will call upon their supporters to demonstrate against the trial, the first under the antiriot provisions of the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

Some 700 persons gathered Tuesday night in Lincoln Park, scene of some of the worst of the convention week clashes, and marched more than two miles to the courthouse carrying lighted candles.

Police arrested one youth after a scuffle but the march proceeded into the Loop without further incident.

The defendants are Abbie Hoffman, 32, New York, leader of the Youth International Party — Yippies; David Dellinger, 53, New York, editor of Liberation magazine; Rennie Davis, 29, Chicago, organizer for the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam; John R. Froines, 30, chemistry professor at the University of Oregon; Thomas E. Hayden, 30, a founder of the Students for a Democratic Society; Jerry Rubin, 31, New York, organizer of 1967 antiwar demonstrations in Berkeley, Calif.; Lee Weiner, 29, Northwestern University research assistant in sociology; and Bobby G. Seale, 32, of Oakland, Calif., national chairman of the Black Panther party.

Resolution for I-30 Route Passes

Members of the Hope Planning Commission met with the City Board at their regular meeting last night to present a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Commission, urging the city to try to arrange a meet with the State Highway Commission to clearly explain the community's position on connections to Interstate 30 and ask for an early engineering study of possible routes.

Tom Hodges, Planning consultant, who is working with the Planning and Zoning Commission presented the resolution to the Board. The Board of Directors unanimously approved the resolution and told the Planning Commission that they would work to implement their suggestions.

The resolution pointed out that a study by the Planning & Zoning Commission indicated that an underpass at Shover Street would be the most usable location of all suggestions and would closely conform to the overall traffic study recently completed by the State Highway.

The highway department has promised to make a study of this route, which has been previously suggested to see whether or not it is feasible. The Commission's position is that if this location cannot be developed they would like to get the highway department to make engineering studies of alternate locations.

The Board reviewed a report from the local committee that has been formed for the development of a community center, in which the committee had recommended that James G. McKenzie be retained as an architect for the proposed project. Mr. McKenzie has had some experience in this type of development and will assist the committee in completing a study of the type facility that is needed, and assist them in filing an application for a federal grant.

Federal funds are available for 75 per cent of the cost of such a facility which must be matched by local funds in amt. of 25 per cent of the total cost. The development committee, assisted by Mr. McKenzie, will begin a series of meetings with all interested groups to determine the location, size and the community activities that can be provided for in the center.

Hope has filed a request to be selected as one of the eight sites in the United States for the development of proto-type low cost housing developments being sponsored by a federal program called "Operation Brake-through". The federal program is an attempt to arrive at low cost but good construction for low and medium income families. Hope's application has attracted some interest and a man from the federal housing administration was in Hope Tuesday looking over the area as a possible site for this experimental development.

Members of the Hope Fire Department met with the City officials with a request that their work week be reduced from 72 to 56 hours per week. The reduction in hours would require the addition of two firemen. The department has presently seven paid firemen and chief. With seven men manning the department, it requires a 72 hour schedule to provide three on duty at all times. Under the proposed 56 hour week, nine firemen would provide the same force on duty at all times. The City Board approved the reduction in hours

Thang, 81, Takes Over N. Vietnam

MOSCOW (AP) — Ton Duc Thang, 81, became president of North Vietnam today, succeeding Ho Chi Minh in that post, the Soviet news agency Tass reported from Hanoi.

The elevation of Thang was expected, North Vietnam's constitution designates the vice president as successor in the event of the death of the chief of state. There has been no announcement, however, of a successor to Ho as chairman of the Lao Dong "Workers" party. The party—not the government—is the real source of power in North Vietnam.

Thang, a revolutionist for more than 60 years and a veteran of Ho's Vietminh forces which fought the French colonial power from 1945 to 1954, is unlikely to yield any more power in Hanoi than that of the ceremonial chief of state.

Budget Cut Is Reason for Resignation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Legislature's decision to reduce the budget of the state Revenue Department is the primary reason the director of the agency's finance and purchasing division as resigned.

David L. Jones, 37, whose resignation becomes effective when a successor is named, said Tuesday that his resignation "without a doubt" is due to budget cuts by legislators.

Jones quit Monday after the cost accounting system he had instituted discovered an error in an expense account for a trip he made to New Orleans for computer school.

He made the trip by plane but his secretary assumed he had gone by car and made out his expense account crediting him with 450 miles by car each way. The error made the account $81.00 too large, but Jones signed it.

"This was not the main factor in my decision to resign," he said. "It was one of the factors because I felt that it would limit my effectiveness. After all, I'm in charge of policing other people's expense accounts and I goofed one of my own."

Jones said, however, that he doesn't recall actually inspecting the account.

"That doesn't matter, really — not how the mistake was made," he said. "What counts is that it was my responsibility to prevent such things as that."

He said the incident capped other frustrations which had already led him to decide to resign.

"I just decided not to wait any longer," he said.

Jones presented the department's budget to the legislature. It asked for $4,950,095 this fiscal year and $5,119,450 in the next. Both totals were less than what the department spent during the last fiscal year.

Jones said the department got $4,472,500 for this fiscal year and $4,643,000 for the next. The lack of funds has forced the closing of more than a dozen regional offices and, Jones said, "more cuts are going to be necessary."

He said state Revenue Commissioner Bob Scott would decide what areas would cut and how severely. Scott announced Tuesday that 15 auditors had been pulled out of field assignments due to insufficient expense funds.

"I wish we could get each legislator to come out here and spend a day with us," Jones said. "Then they might have some understanding of the problem. This isn't political talk. This is truth. They don't have to come out and talk to me or Bob Scott. Let them come talk to the employees — talk to L. A. Hendren who has been here 27 years, talk to Ed McLees, the assistant commissioner, who has been here 20 — some — odd years."

Jones said most of the public does not understand the magnitude of the department's job.

He also said that because of lack of funds "we take people and train them in date processing for our computer section, and once they get the hang of it they get jobs somewhere else, for better pay."

The first Senate page was appointed by Henry Clay and Daniel Webster. His name was Grafton D. Hanson and he was only nine years old.

Israeli Planes Attack Egypt Installations

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes attacked military installations in Egypt and Arab guerrilla strongholds in Jordan today, the Israeli military command reported.

A spokesman said all planes returned safely after brief strikes.

The attack along the west coast of the Gulf of Suez in Egypt was in response to "continued Egyptian cease-fire violations," the spokesman said. The same reason has been given for previous raids.

The spokesman said Israeli jets pounded two guerrilla camps in the area of Taffila in Jordan about 10 miles south of the Salt Sea and a third base near Shaubak about 20 miles further south. He claimed the bases were centers of guerrilla operations against Israeli settlements in the southern Negev Desert.

The spokesman also reported two Israeli soldiers were killed Tuesday by Egyptian shells fired across the Suez Canal near the Firden Bridge. He said one of the victims was an 18-year-old private and the other a 41-year-old man.

Reveals Why He's Helping Green Beret

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
DUMAS, Ark. (AP)—William Crews McCulloch, gentleman farmer, formed the Green Beret Defense Committee because he saw murder charges against six Special Forces officers as a threat to the organization in which they serve.

The committee will raise funds to aid the men, who also are charged with conspiracy to commit murder in the death of an alleged Vietnamese double agent.

McCulloch, an ex-Green Beret captain, said in an interview that he conceived the idea of aiding the charged officers last August when there were indications that the men might be brought to trial.

He broached the idea to James Morris of Norman, Okla., with whom he had served in the Special Forces.

"We were thinking the same thing, so we got to work," said McCulloch, 38, who left the Special Forces in 1965 but still is a healthy 5-foot-11, 190 pounds. "We didn't want to sit idly by and watch perhaps the destruction of an organization that has contributed a lot more than many people will ever know," said McCulloch at his 4,000-acre soybeans and cotton farm near this Southeast Arkansas delta town of 4,213.

He declined to discuss in detail his own missions in counterinsurgency work in Thailand and South Vietnam in 1963-64, talking in general terms about the "civic action" of the Special Forces in isolated tribal areas.

McCulloch also declined to be specific in his discussion of reports of any Army conspiracy to defame its Green Beret branch, but he said the committee's aid to those facing charges would be applied to betting the best "civilian" legal counsel.

The desire for civilian attorneys is "not necessarily" due to the possibility of military pressure against Army lawyers,

McCulloch said. "However, these attorneys are wearing Army uniforms—military uniforms, at least—so it's felt that justice can best be served by a civilian counsel that is not restricted in any way by the military forces."

The committee has 15 members and is growing, McCulloch said. Some committee members have been in contact with the Green Berets who have been charged.

"I'm convinced of their innocence," McCulloch said. "In fact, if this indictment against these men should be upheld, all of the Army and all of the military operating in South Vietnam should be indicted on similar charges."

He refused to talk about reports that the alleged double agent was liquidated on orders of the Central Intelligence Agency, but he said Green Berets occasionally were placed under the command of intelligence agencies and always worked closely with them.

McCulloch said he never knew "from personal knowledge" whether his detachment was ever under CIA command. He said he had never been involved in an order or operation to liquidate any spy.

"The motto for the Special Forces is 'Liberate the Oppressed' and that has been, for the most part, adhered to," he said. "It is an all-voluntary unit and we have strictly lived up to the motto whether the general public thinks so or not."

"The public has no knowledge of so many things the organization does and we were concerned because of the black mark against the whole force," said McCulloch.

Educated at Gideon, Mo., he married a Flat River, Mo., minister's daughter in Dallas, Tex., in 1952, about a year after he enlisted in the Army just out of high school "for what I believe was patriotism, although that is obsolete these days."

The McCullochs have two adopted daughters, Jane, 7, and Sharon, 8.

The committee members are paying their own expenses—mostly telephone bills and postage—in contacting other Special Forces veterans to join the cam-

Antipoverty Plan Having Rough Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is having a hard time getting House Republicans to go along with its plans for continuing the antipoverty program.

If the administration could assure House leaders that just 60 of the 188 Republican members would support it, the legislation would be moved promptly. But no such assurance is forthcoming.

Unless agreement is reached soon, the Democrats will probably bring a beefed-up bill to the floor in hopes of putting the Republicans in the politically embarrassing position of whittling it down in public.

Nixon has asked for a simple two-year extension of the Economic Opportunity Act that paign to provide "moral and financial support" to those facing trial.

launched Lyndon B. Johnson's "War on Poverty" in 1964, and Democrats are supporting him. But, having fought the legislation tooth and nail during the Johnson years, most House Republicans are unwilling to drop the fight now despite the Nixon label on the bill.

In the Senate, the Democrats already have started to fatten up the program.

Last week a subcommittee added $830 million to the $2 billion requested by Nixon, putting the money into the most popular programs run by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The sum may be reduced by the full committee but the bill itself is in no real difficulty in the Senate.

The trouble is in the House, where a coalition of Southern Democrats and Republicans has made passage a struggle every year. Only by granting important concessions and bringing its full weight to bear was the Johnson administration able to keep the program going.

Daniel Webster was known as the "Expounder of the Constitution."
